The 2018 CHERE Conference Series

PART 1

Being Diverse Isn't Enough: Diversity, Equity, Inclusion and Action!

Friday, June 22 at the University of Hartford

Register Today!

How do we turn our campuses into diverse communities? This conference, part 1 of 3, will help us turn diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives into ACTION - to support our under-represented, first generation, minority and otherwise challenged students, and to help all students benefit from a diverse campus community.

Topics include high school to college transition, sustaining success in the first year and supporting student identity without building silos. Discussions will lead to practical solutions and implementable initiatives around academic, social and financial supports.

A student will keynote these challenges, and a skilled expert will put those comments in context. Following, a panel of students and professionals will look deeper into these challenges, based on their own experience, and engage in dialogue with other attendees.

PART 2 - September 20, 2018

University of Saint Joseph, West Hartford

Success for Women

Female students face many of the same obstacles to completing their college degrees as their male counterparts. How do low-income and minority women experience gender as an obstacle to successfully moving on? Presented in partnership with the Aurora Women and Girls Foundation.

PART 3 - November 2018

Gateway Community College, New Haven

Success for Men and Other Groups

All students face obstacles to college success, often very different ones for students of different backgrounds. This event will look at ways that schools and colleges are addressing these challenges and highlight innovative practices that have been proven to work.
