

The Future of Higher Education

Big Issues & New Approaches to Support Traditional & Challenged Students

Speakers include the Co-Chair of the CT Legislature's Higher Education and Employment Advancement Committee, representatives from the CT Board of Regents, researchers from the Chronicle of Higher Education, and college presidents.

Part 1: Friday, Oct. 11, 9 AM - 3 PM
at Central Connecticut State University

Part 2: Friday, Oct. 18, 9 AM - 3 PM
at Goodwin College, East Hartford

Higher education is at a crossroads.

Whether we like it or not, the nature of higher education is changing: teaching and learning going digital, more students learning on-line and off-campus, costs and debt keeping our most needy students from enrolling, lack of supports to help them succeed.

Colleges in CT and beyond – two-year, four-year, and technical programs – are trying to address these challenges. It is CHERE's mission to help share ideas that work and bring practitioners together to seek new strategies and solutions.

Join key policy makers and higher education leaders from Connecticut and the region for an important Two-Day conference. We will examine the nature of higher education today, and the challenges and the strategies that can make a difference.

Register online or by using the enclosed form. Early bird discounts available.
Support from Central Connecticut State University and Goodwin College have allowed CHERE to reduce regular prices.
