State-of-the-Art Programs from a variety of one, two and four-year technical education programs in Connecticut

Friday, November 21, 2014, 9 AM – 3 PM

Housatonic Community College, Bridgeport

Technical and career education beyond high school is good news and bad news: more high school graduates - including underrepresented, first generation and adult learners - can see its potential... but they, their parents and their high school counselors are often not fully aware of how best to serve diverse students.

30 and 60 credit programs, and some 4-year programs, serve motivated students, and jobs usually follow. Yet these programs have widely disparate outcomes in retention, graduation and ultimate debt levels in relation to ability to pay off those debts. Along with programs experts, a student panel representing these programs will share their insights.

Attendance limited to the first 75 people to register.

A fee of $95 includes light breakfast and lunch, and a registration binder with relevant information and the work of the presenting programs.
